End of Year Teacher Gifts

May is one of the busiest times of year for those with children in school. Proms, recitals, graduations, programs, and more all take place during this month. As the year draws to a close, it is also a great time to show appreciation to teachers who have had a hand in helping your child grow during the school year. I am sharing end of year gift ideas any teacher would love to receive. Be sure to add a handwritten note with the gift to add a personal touch.

A sweet treat is always a welcome gift especially during the stressful May days. These cookies are not only adorable but also delicious. Choose a school-themed cookie gift set for a great surprise for your child's teacher.

These fun coasters are perfect for a teacher's desk. They often have multiple beverages like water, coffee, and/or soda to keep them energized during the school day. I love how fun and practical these are. You could also include a case of their drink of choice with the coasters.

One thing about teachers is that they're always writing lists and notes. There can never be enough notepads and a cute, personalized one is always fun. Customize with their name and favorite colors. Add their favorite pens for a gift they will use daily!

This would be such a sweet and sentimental gift for a teacher. You could even add photos of the class from throughout the year and have students write a memory within it before giving it as a gift.

Teachers are off in the summer, leaving them time to enjoy the beautiful weather... when they aren't working in their classroom for the upcoming school year! A cute idea for a summer themed gift is a monogrammed beach towel. You can even personalize the towel using their favorite colors, initials, or name!

A spring scented candle that also will look lovely in any home is a great gift for your child's teacher. These candles from Lux have a burn time of 8-10 hours. I also love that the company is headquartered in Arkansas. This grapefruit scent is clean and makes the space smell amazing.
